

Are You Healthy? Join A Study!

Help Us
Learn More
About the Brain

Healthy research volunteers play a vital role in biomedical research by helping scientists advance knowledge and better understand, treat, and ultimately, improve health.

Register here

NIMHResearchVolunteer.ctss.nih.gov

National Institute of Mental Health
Study # 17-M-0181

The National Institute of Mental Health (NIMH) is conducting this study to create a list of healthy research volunteers who are interested in participating in additional NIMH studies. We invite adults in good health, ages 18 and older, to join this study and:

- Register, consent, and complete online questionnaires (visit the website listed above)
- Answer questions about medical and mental health

After completing online questionnaires, those who are eligible for an in-person appointment may be invited to the NIH Clinical Center in Bethesda, Maryland, that may include:

- Psychological and cognitive assessments
- Physical exam, blood, and urine tests
- Learning about additional study opportunities, as well as brain scans (MRI, MEG) for this volunteer study

There is no cost to participate. Compensation is provided for the in-person appointment. Transportation may be provided.

researchvolunteer@mail.nih.gov, 240-665-0697