The Clinical Research Nurses at the B2 Outpatient Clinic care for children and adults who are enrolled in a variety of National Institutes of Health (NIH) research studies. Our team works together to give you the best care during your time at the Clinical Center. Here is some information about what you and your family can expect.

What happens when you arrive?

Please sign in at the front desk when you arrive. If you are new to NIH, give us your hard chart from Admissions. For returning patients, update your contact information, if necessary. To ensure patient safety and help to prevent delays, bring your barcode or ID card with barcode to all of your appointments.

A nurse will escort you back to obtain your vital signs and perform nursing and medication assessments. If you have any new or urgent concerns, please inform the nurse.

Please tell us right away if you have:

- Signs of infections (fever, runny nose, diarrhea)
- A history of being on isolation
- Respiratory (breathing) symptoms; if so, please ask for a mask and put it on right away
- MRSA, VRE, CRE, KPC or any other similar infection (or a history of these infections)

After you have been seen by the nurse, one of the physicians will perform a medical history and a physical exam. If it is the resident or physician's assistant (PA), your case will be presented to your attending.

What are isolation precautions?

If you have a disease that could spread to others, then we may ask you to wear a mask while in the hospital. You may also need to follow rules about leaving the room. Your nurse or doctor will explain what to do. By following these rules, your family can help stop the spread of diseases.

Do you need identification?

We will give you an ID bracelet to wear on the wrist. Please understand that you need to keep it on at all times. The ID bracelet will serve as identification for lab collection and medication administration at NIH.

What should you bring with you?

Please bring an up-to-date list of your medicines and dosages with you, including over-the-counter and herbal medications and vitamin supplements. Let your nurse know if you have any drug allergies.

If your NIH doctor prescribes medicines to take home that are related to your research study, they will be filled at the Outpatient Pharmacy on the first floor. The hours are:

- Monday –Thursday: 8:30a.m. - 6p.m.
- Friday: 8:30a.m. - 8p.m.
- Weekends and Holidays: 8:30a.m. - 12:30p.m.

What can you expect during you visit?

If you are here for radiation treatment, you will be escorted to the treatment area each day by one of the therapists. While receiving treatment, your physician and nurse will see you weekly to assess and manage any treatment-related side effects that you may experience. At any time, please alert the person at the front desk if you have any problems.

How do you receive meals?

Food may be purchased in vending machines throughout the Clinical Center and in cafeterias and cafes. There are also many restaurants in Bethesda, about two miles from the hospital.

What are the rules about visitors?

A visitor may accompany a patient to the designated unit, into the room of the patient whom they are visiting, and into common rooms (lounges, cafeterias, playrooms). Please keep in mind:

- Visitors who have been recently exposed to an infectious disease (for example, impetigo, chickenpox, tuberculosis, hepatitis) may not visit.
- Visitors with cold or flu symptoms are discouraged from visiting.
- Visitors must wash their hands or use hand sanitizer when coming in and leaving your room to prevent spreading germs.
- The bathroom in your room is only for you and other patients. Visitors should use the Clinical Center's public bathrooms.
- NIH is a smoke-free campus. If you have any questions about our smoking policy, please talk to your health care team. The NIH police may fine anyone who smokes on the NIH property.

What if you have health problems at home?

If you have a health emergency at home, call 911 right away.

Please stop by and see our Patient Care Representative to schedule your next appointment and book future tests, scans, or discuss travel vouchers.

If you are receiving treatment and have problems during the day, please call our front desk at 301-496-5457. For urgent matters occurring on weekdays after 4:30PM, weekends, or holidays, please call the page operator at 301-496-1211 and request to page the Radiation Oncologist on call.
